To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter at the request of and with verbal and written consent of my client, Sharlena Luyen. I meet with Ms. Luyen regularly in the context of individual therapy. She meets criteria for and has been diagnosed with a psychiatric illness consistent with DSM-5-TR criteria. Because of this diagnosis, Ms. Luyen meets criteria for a disability. Her disability does not impact her ability to perform necessary tasks associated with her job, but does impact her ability to perform to her full potential within the limits of traditional test taking times. It is my clinical opinion that, consistent with the American's with Disabilities Act, she should be given a fair and reasonable accommodation. Specifically, I recommend additional test taking time within the context of her job application process.

Please contact me if you have additional questions or require additional information.

Sincerely,

Anna Rose, PhD
